Servants Together

(The Salvation Army International Doctrine Council)

Servants Together gives Salvationist perspectives on the ministry of the whole people of God. It deals with key subjects such as God's call, worship and Christian Community.

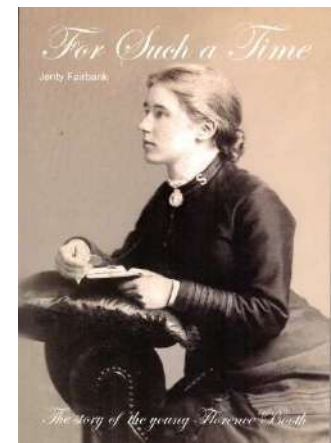

For Such a Time...the story of a young Florence Booth

(Jenty Fairbank)

For such a time is one of those rare books chronicling early Salvation Army history from the inside out. Drawing heavily on intimate diaries and memoirs dating back to Florence's teenage years, it engrosses us in

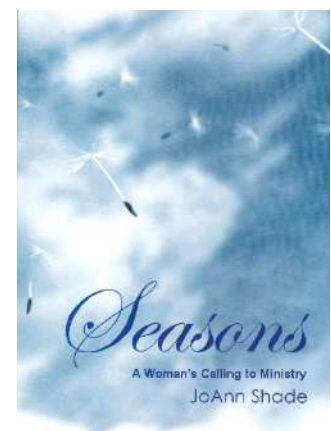

- The battle against fierce parental opposition to her joining this disreputable Army and, worse still, marrying Bramwell Booth
- The perils of pioneering in Paris in the early 1880s
- Being confronted as a 22-year-old with the evils of child prostitution and sex trafficking and as a result
- Finding herself caught up in a national campaign, which brought her young husband to stand trial at the Old Bailey.

Seasons – A Woman's Calling to Ministry

(JoAnn Shade)

Women serving in Salvation Army ministry face distinctive challenges throughout the changing 'seasons' of their lives as their personal and family circumstances intertwine with their work as Salvation Army Officers. This book explores these issues and provides theological and practical support through biblical character studies and wisdom gleaned from the author's nearly thirty years of officership. Critical questions – sometimes rarely raised or debated publicly – are explored in ways which offer hope and direction.
